The Movement for Uniform State Laws.

Three weeks hence the fifth annual conference of the commissioners appointed by the different States of the Union to consider and report upon such measures as will tend to bring about a uniformity of State laws touching certain vital commercial and domestic subjects will meet at Saratoga Nearly thirty States will send official representatives to this conference The movement originated in New York five years ago and has been warmly taken up by the bar in all the older States and in a large majority of the newer ones To day we are living in a nation under a fourfold system of law First the laws of the United States, second, the statutes of the several States, third, the common law as interpreted by the federal courts, fourth, the common law in each State as interpreted by its own court The result is a diversity of laws and of legal decisions which is embarrassing to business transactions between citizens of different States and in such social questions as arise out of marriage and divorce the making of wills and the inheritance and transfer of property work not only confusion but wrong

It is generally assumed that the common law of England is the common law of the United States but this is not strictly true Thirty States have adopted it with certain reservations The Maryland Declaration of Rights declares the people of this State to be entitled to the common law of England In five other States only such parts of the English common law as were in force within its territory prior to the adoption of the State constitutions are declared to be in force and only so far as they are consistent therewith In twenty four other States the common law of England is adopted so far as it is applicable under their constitutions and laws and "is adapted to the conditions and wants of the people," which is a decidedly loose limitation In Florida and Dakota there is declared to be no common law In the other fifteen States and Territories the statute books are silent but the English common law is generally presumed to prevail except as it is set aside by special statutes Some of our States have adopted all English laws in force prior to a certain date The Virginias for example have adopted all statutes in aid of the common law with reference to remedial and judicial writs enacted prior to the fourth year of James I with specified exceptions, and Pennsylvania adopts all that were in force on May 10 1776 On the other hand New York has expressly denied any effect to English statutes since May 1 1788 Nevertheless the courts of all the States do in fact, continually render decisions based upon those important principles that are held to form the common law of England Next there is a large body of colonial laws still in force in various States But the diversity of the laws under which the American people live is chiefly occasioned by the statutes of the different States enacted since the war of Independence It is with a view to straightening out this tangled web of diverse legislation that the Saratoga conference will shortly meet to report the progress toward uniform State legislation during the past year and to concert measures for carrying on the work of bringing all the States into agreement on certain fundamental laws

It is not desirable that the people of every State should adopt the same laws on subjects that touch only their local concerns and tastes, but on such matters as the execution of wills deeds of conveyance of real estate and above all, the contracting of marriage and the decreeing of divorce it is desirable that there should be some basis of common consent and legal requirement At present a marriage may be valid in New York without the aid of either a clerical or civil officer, while in Connecticut it is not There is only one cause for absolute divorce in New York while in Connecticut there are eight distinct grounds for dissolving the marriage tie The so called common law marriage is recognized in many States, and in many others it is not The last conference of the commissioners who are laboring for uniformity recommended to their State Legislatures the passage of acts requiring some slight ceremony or formality or written evidence, signed by the parties and attested by one or more witnesses, in all marriages, and that in all States where a common law marriage is held to be valid it should hereafter be required to be evidenced by a writing signed in duplicate by the contracting parties and attested by two witnesses It would certainly seem reasonable that an act of such importance to the individuals and the community as a marriage should at least be recorded with as much formality as is ordinarily required in the purchase on credit of fifty dollars worth of furniture

In commercial transactions the conference aims among other things to make the formalities attending the executions of wills uniform to assimilate legal weights and measures, so that a bushel shall not be one thing in New Jersey and another in New York as at present, and to make the manner of acknowledging and executing all written instruments the same throughout the country Again, a very large degree of divergence now prevails between the laws of the different States concerning corporations and this it is felt desirable to correct At present while some States strictly limit corporations in the issuing of their capital stock, maintaining it unimpaired and keeping the indebtedness below the amount of their paid up capital and restricting the transfer of stock and the use of proxies in voting thereon, other States leave them practically free to do as they please in all these matters The protection of investors against fraud would certainly be promoted if all the States could be brought to adopt some common requirements as to the organization and management of corporate property

It is not to be expected that progress toward uniform State legislation will be rapid along any of these lines but the movement is an important one, and its development at Saratoga this month may well be watched with sympathetic interest —Balto Sun of Aug 2nd

The Reformed Church.

An Article Relating to the Reformed Churches in the United States and Somewhat to the Presbyterian Church. The Dutch Reformed.

The Difference Between the Dutch and German Reformed The Connection of the Two With Presbyterianism

The following is part of an article on the Dutch Reformed church which appeared in the New York Sun of Aug 4 It will be found of interest to members of the German Reformed and to the Presbyterian churches being a history with which both are associated

What is the meaning of the technical term Reformed as applied to a division of Protestant Christianity? The Reformed church is the name given to that great division of Protestantism which had its rise in Switzerland in 1516 under Zwingli It was contemporary with the Lutheran Reformation but it was independent of it and stands distinct from the Lutheran church Subsequently more wholly developed and organized under Calvin it acquired a distinct type of doctrine and a Presbyterian polity While the name Reformed however was chiefly confined to churches on the Continent the term in a doctrinal sense embraced also Protestantism under almost all its forms in the British Isles The persecutions under Mary drove many of the English reformers to Switzerland and whence some of them brought back the principles which developed into Puritanism, while John Knox took back with him to Scotland the principles of Presbyterianism The fundamental thought of the doctrine of the Reformed church was the divine sovereignty to which the human will must always bow subordinate Especially emphasized were the doctrines of grace as they were called These doctrines are conspicuous in the confessions of faith of every country where the Reformed church prevailed in Switzerland, in the Helvetic Confession in France in the Gallican in Holland in the Belgic in England, in the seventeenth article of the Thirty nine Articles and in the Westminster Confession and finally these doctrines were revised and formulated anew in the canons of the Synod of Dort (1618 19) by representatives of all the churches above referred to besides some churches from other European States The doctrinal system of Calvin however, as thus presented was more or less modified at an early period by the so called federal theology which was first thoroughly formulated by Coccejus (1669 69) Witsius subsequently became the chief defender of the Coccejan innovations Later modifications of the system of Calvin were attempted at the School of Saumur in France by Fuller in England and by Jonathan Edwards and others in America Even in the most cursory view of this matter stress should be laid on the change made by Calvin in Zwingli's view of the Lord's supper The great colloquy at Marburg (1529) held for the purpose of consolidating the Swiss and German Reformations including as it did the discussion of the doctrine of the supper made an impress upon Protestantism which to this day is visible Then began the long separation of the Lutheran and Reformed churches as they later came to be called Luther held unyieldingly to the literal interpretation of the words "This is my body" while Zwingli adopted what seemed to him the only rational meaning of the phrase namely that the bread and wine represented the body and blood of Christ, and that the supper was therefore chiefly a memorial "This do in remembrance of me" Subsequently Calvin while holding the memorial view emphasized the fact of the spiritual presence of Christ at the supper and maintained that he was spiritually received by the spiritual and believing worshipper It was chiefly owing to these differences about the supper that the Lutheran and Reformed churches separated

Before taking the history of the Dutch Reformed church in the United States we should mention that it was to pass through many vicissitudes in Holland The spread of rationalism in the eighteenth century affected many of its ministers and the Napoleonic wars resulted in a modification of its polity In 1816 certain new regulations were adopted, which partly restored the former system Eventually the Established church of Holland gave up the canons of Dort, and allowed as wide a latitude to its ministers and professors as was conceded in Germany or Switzerland Hence, in 1834 a number of ministers and congregations separated from the established church, and organized the Christian Reformed church Their design was to maintain the old purity of doctrine But it was not without much difficulty that they obtained recognition from the civil power In 1846 began a new immigration of Hollanders, chiefly from this body to Michigan and other States of the American Union These now far exceed in numbers the original Hollander settlers of 1624, from whom the Dutch Reformed church of the United State has descended A large portion of these recent immigrants have entered the fold of the Reformed church in America, for the reason that this adhered to the original system of reformed doctrine Some however, have united with the so called True Reformed Dutch church a small body which seceded in 1822 It remains to add that the present kingdom of the Netherlands according to the Constitution of 1848 grants entire liberty of conscience and complete civil equality to the members of all religious confessions Not only the National Reformed church and the Roman Catholic church, but in certain seposts Presbyterian ministers are supported by the Government In 1857, under the influence of the Liberals and the Romanists, the Dutch Government banished religious instruction from the schools and in 1876 it abolished the theological faculties in the universities, but granted funds to the National Synod for special theological instruction When rationalists secured these professorships the orthodox party within the national church established a Free Reformed University at Amsterdam (1880) The same party has established free schools all over Holland in which evangelical religion is taught

It was the Reformed church of Holland which first planted Presbyterianism in the new world Subsequently, many adherents of the Reformed faith emigrated to America Those from the Continent while retaining the general epithet of Reformed, prefixed adjectives to indicate their origin hence the Dutch Reformed, the French Reformed, and the German Reformed churches scattered representatives of the Swiss Reformed also were not wanting These old national distinctions however became comparatively meaningless in the general intermixture and Americanization of all the Reformed churches in this country The French Reformed have been almost completely absorbed by other denominations which flourished around them From 1730 to 1792 the German Reformed churches, mostly derived from the Palatinate, placed themselves under the care of the Classis of Amsterdam To Amsterdam indeed, all the American Reformed churches that were of Continental origin turned for men and money

Many of the first Dutch settlers brought their certificates of church membership with them to New Netherland and a list of their names may have given rise to the story of an organized church existing as early as 1619 As a matter of fact, these members, though constituting the elements of the church were not formally organized according to Presbyterian models The first church was organized in 1628 by the Rev Jonas Michaelius who came over in 1628 and a letter of his discovered in 1858 is the earliest ecclesiastical document relating to New York How long Michaelius remained on Manhatten Island is unknown

The ministry of the Rev Everardus Bogardus was a stormy one owing largely to the bad character of the Governor The loft over the horse mill in which the people had worshipped since 1633 was now replaced by a plain wooden building "like a barn," near the East River in what is now Broad street between Pearl and Bridge streets Near this church was erected a dwelling house and stable for the "domine" This word vocative of the Latin dominus, was during the middle ages the usual title by which learned men were addressed In the Netherland churches which insisted on a learned ministry it became the title of clergymen As such it crossed the Atlantic, and is still used as a term of address to ministers of the Reformed church In 1642 the wooden church gave place to a stone building which cost 2,500 guilders Four years before Domine Bogardus had married for his second wife Anneke Jans whose first husband Rolof Jansen, had obtained from Director Van Twiller in 1636 a grant of sixty two acres of land west of Broadway This was the original conveyance of the Trinity church property and was known as the Domine's Bouwerie (or farm

From the moment that New Netherland fell into English hands the development of the Reformed church was naturally checked Dutch immigration practically ceased Many Hollanders removed to the Carolinas The number of clergymen was soon reduced from six to three Nor was it enlarged for some ten years although there were 10 000 souls to be ministered unto The nature of the relations of Dutch ministers and church members in New Netherland to the State church of Holland was not defined but it was necessarily modified by the political change A century later in the efforts to secure ecclesiastical independence their relations to the church of Holland on the one hand, and to the English Government on the other became topics of vehement discussion As a matter of fact, however, there was never any serious attempt to enforce the English Acts of Uniformity between 1664 and 1689, when the Act of Toleration was passed The Dutch and French with English dissenters and some others constituted nine tenths of the population during the greater part of the colonial period It was not likely that this great majority would permit a few English officials with a handful of followers to impose upon them a distasteful church polity and form of worship It is certain that against such efforts the Dutch set themselves successfully They prevented the passage of any provincial law establishing the church of England though it was subsequently assumed, contrary to fact, that the said church was established

The use of the Dutch language for too long a period in the pulpits undoubtedly weakened the Reformed church and drove many of its children into the Presbyterian and Episcopal communions As early as 1730 a petition was presented with many signatures for part English services in the Church of New York, but the effort was not successful English was not introduced into that church until 1763 and then the innovation brought on a disastrous lawsuit In many of the rural parishes Dutch speaking lingered until about 1820 Then, for a quarter of a century, the Dutch language was seldom heard in the pulpit, but the use of it was again revived with the recent immigration to Michigan and other States, and it is now heard in the pulpits of 200 churches belonging to the two Hollander denominations existing in the West In 1696 the year in which the first church charter was secured by the members of the Dutch Reformed communion from William III, the churches were only twenty three in number and the ministers only nine During the next twenty five years there was a slow natural increase of population, with the result that the number of churches rose to forty and that of the ministers to thirteen In 1755 when a temporary disruption of the Dutch Reformed organization took place there were twenty eight ministers and seventy three churches The figures had risen respectively to forty one and one hundred at the re union of the parties in 1772 The Revolutionary war being waged mainly on the territory of the Dutch Reformed church, this suffered not a little, so that in 1792 there were but forty ministers and 116 churches During the early years of the present century a number of churches were organized in Canada, but they were scattered by the war of 1812 In 1841 there were 234 ministers and 253 churches, with about 24 000 communicants About 1846 the new immigration of Hollanders to the West began, and thenceforward there was a steady increase of the Dutch Reformed sect in the United States In 1855 the churches numbered 364, the ministers 348 and the communicants 36 000, ten years later the number of churches had risen to 437, that of ministers to 436, and that of communicants to more than 54 000, while the money subscribed for congregational purposes amounted to nearly half a million dollars At the time of the national centennial (1876) the churches of the Dutch Reformed communion had increased in number to 506 the ministers to 546 and the communicants to nearly 75 000 Lastly in 1894 the number of churches reported was 612 that of ministers 614 and that of communicants nearly 101 000, while the money collected for congregational purposes was about $1 048 000

The Dutch Reformed church in the United States, while it recognizes all evangelical Christians as brethren has been noted for conservatism in doctrine There has never been any change in the doctrinal standards since the Synod of Dort (1619) yet perfect liberty of investigation is allowed and encouraged The standards and the liturgies were not fully translated for use in America until 1767, although translations existed in England previously In the last named year an English psalm book was published with the music, the plates for the latter having been prepared in Holland In 1813 a revised edition of the psalms was published without music and with the addition of 172 hymns During the last twenty five years several entire books of new hymns have been adopted, until now the hymnology endorsed by the General Synod includes almost all the important evangelical hymns before the public The Dutch Reformed type of Presbyterianism has some distinctive features Its elders and deacons are chosen only for two years although they may be re-elected but the elder retains the honor of his office for life and may at any time, although not in the Consistory become a delegate to the synods of the church The acting consistory may call together all former elders and deacons as a Great Consistory for consultation on important matters The members of the consistory are also generally trustees of the church property This arrangement prevents a conflict of views between the spiritual and the temporal officials The Dutch Reformed church has an elaborate liturgy but this may be used or not at the option of the ministry The forms for the administration of baptism and the Lord's Supper are however obligatory Either mode of baptism is allowed although but one is commonly employed In order to avoid neglecting any part of divine truth ministers are required to explain the system of doctrine contained in the Heidelberg Catechism so as to go over the whole of it once in four years The system presents the fact and the cause of man's misery the method of redemption and the gratitude which is due to God therefor Constructed on such a basis, and emphasizing the comforts to be derived from all the great facts of Christianity, the Heidelberg Catechism is one to which evangelical Christians of all creeds could subscribe

Before taking leave of this account of the Dutch Reformed Church we should mention that about 1880 some of the recent emigrants from Holland demanded that the General Synod should denounce Freemasonry, and refuse church fellowship to those belonging to oath bound secret societies This the synod after patient consideration of the subject declined to do

We must reserve for another occasion an outline of the interesting story of the Moravians in the United States A word however should here be said about the progress of the German Reformed Church in this country The difficulties that encompassed the work of establishing this organization had appeared well nigh insurmountable when Boehm and Weiss began their labors among the scattered Palatines of Pennsylvania The Germans were poor and had brought with them from their fatherland local prejudices and various shades of doctrines Unfamiliar with the language of their adopted country they were slow to adopt the methods of their neighbors, and that in later days a change in language was accompanied by dissension and conflict is not surprising These difficulties however were eventually overcome and recent statistics bear witness to a remarkable increase of the German Reformed Church in membership and efficiency According to the reports for 1894 the General Synod now includes eight district synods fifty five classes 938 ministers 1 646 congregations 221 473 communicants 123 333 unconfirmed members, and there are 291 students for the ministry The amount of contributions for benevolent purposes was nearly $258 000 notwithstanding the fact that for many years the value of missionary work was imperfectly appreciated in the German branch of the Reformed Church M W H

MODERN ARMS AND GETTYSBURG

At Gettysburg in July 1863 had the Federal troops been armed with the rifle now being issued to the United States infantry and with the present improved field guns, Pickett's heroic band in the charge on the third day would have been under fire from start to finish and the fire of massed infantry, combined with breech loading cannon, would probably have destroyed every man in the assaulting lines Pickett's right when formed for the charge, was 1 800 yards from the Union lines and the magazine rifle sight is graduated at it will be remembered, to 1,900 yards With the weapons then in use the Federals did not open with artillery on the charging southern troops until they were within 1 100 yards of their lines, and their infantry did not fire until they were within a much closer range In the war between China and Japan it was stated that a ball fired from a Japanese rifle called the murata, similar to the United States magazine rifle, struck a Chinese three quarters of a mile away in the knee and crushed it to atoms —"The Future of War," by General Fitz Hugh Lee in Century

THE Scientific American announces a new virtue for the pneumatic tired bicycle, viz that the rider is perfectly free from the deadly lightning stroke The wheels of a bicycle being encircled by a band of India rubber and dry air—which is a perfect insulator—the rider is completely insulated from the earth and, consequently, impervious to the attacks of the electric fluid Any one who suffers from nervousness during a thunder shower has now only to go into a barn or the cellar and seat himself upon the saddle of a pneumatic-tired bicycle to be perfectly safe from lightning stroke

That Wife of His.

After having been married some weeks it came into the head of a young husband one Sunday when he had but little to occupy his mind, to suggest to his wife that they should plainly and honestly state the faults that each had discovered in the other since they had been man and wife After some hesitation the wife agreed to the proposition, but stipulated that the rehearsal should be made in all sincerity, and with an honest view to the bettering of each other, as otherwise it would be of no use to speak of the faults to which marriage had opened their eyes The husband was of the same mind and his wife asked him to begin He was somewhat reluctant, but his wife insisted that he was first to propose the matter and, as he was the head of the house it was his place to take the lead Thus urged he began the recital

He said

"My dear one of the first faults that I observed in you after we began keeping house was that you a good deal neglected the tin ware My mother always took great pride in her tin ware, and kept it as bright as a dollar "

"I am glad you have mentioned it, dear," said the wife, blushing a little "hereafter you shall see no spot on cup or pan Pray proceed "

"I have also observed that you use your dish rags a long time without washing them and finally throw them away Now, when at home, I remember that my mother always used to wash out her dish rags when she was done using them and then hung them up where they could dry, ready for the next time she would need them "

Blushing, as before, the young wife promised to amend this fault

The husband continued with a most formidable list of similar faults, many more than we have space to enumerate when he declared that he could think of nothing more worthy of mention

"Now, my dear," said he "you begin and tell me all the faults you have discovered in me since we have been married "

The wife sat in silence Her face flushed to the temples and a great lump came in her throat which she seemed to be striving hard to swallow

"Proceed, my dear, tell me all the faults you have discovered in me, spare none "

Arising suddenly from her seat the little wife burst into tears, and throwing both arms about her husband's neck, cried

"My dear husband you have not a fault in the world If you have one my eyes have been so blinded by my love for you that so long as we have been married I never once observed it In my eyes you are perfect and all that you do seems to be done in the best manner and just what should be done "

"But my dear," said the husband, his face reddening and his voice growing husky with emotion, "just think, I have gone and found all manner of fault with you Now do tell me some of my faults I know I have many—ten times as many as you had or ever will have Let me hear them "

"Indeed husband it is as I tell you, you have not a single fault that I can see Whatever you do seems right in my eyes and now that I know what a good for nothing little wretch I am, I shall at once begin the work of reform and try to make myself worthy of you "

"Nonsense, my dear you know that sometimes I go away and leave you without any wood cut, I stay down town when I ought to be at home I spend money for drink and cigars when I ought to bring it home to you I—"

"No you don't " cried his wife, "you do nothing of the kind I like to see you enjoy yourself, I should be unhappy were you to do otherwise than just exactly as you do "

"God bless you little wife," cried the now subjugated husband, "from this moment you have no faults in the world Indeed, you never had a fault, I was joking, don't remember a word I said" And he kissed away the tears that trembled in the little woman's eyes

Never again did the husband scrutinize the tin ware nor examine the dish rag—never so much as mention one of the faults he had enumerated—but soon after the neighbor women were wont to say

"It is wonderful how neat Mrs —— keeps everything about her house Her tin ware is as bright as a new dollar and I do believe that she not only washes, but irons her dish rags " And the neighbor men were heard to say "What a steady fellow —— has got to be of late, he don't spend a dime where he used to spend dollars, and can never be kept from home half an hour when he is not at work He seems to worship that wife of his "

OWNING A HOME

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says "Is it better that a young couple should board, live in rented rooms or house, or set out with a determination to own a home, although the means to buy it with are limited? That is the question which troubles a good many people beginning life, and, as Sir Roger De Coverly remarked, 'Much may be said on both sides' The weight of the argument in the general run, however, lies on the side of owning a home Hundreds of families in this city discovered that fact during the hard times of the past two years The house, free from debt, is a perpetual lesson of the importance of living within one's income, whether it be large or small The practice of saving is continued in order to beautify the home and then to accumulate a reserve fund to provide against emergencies The wide difference between rent and taxes is added to the savings, and when a pinch comes and the income is reduced, or for a time stops altogether, the hardship is less felt, for the family that has no rent to pay can get along for some time on a small sum when necessity compels The argument is all on the side of owning a house instead of renting, provided too much is not undertaken and the determination is adhered to that rigid economy shall be practiced until the last payment is made."

UP to last Tuesday the N Y Times had kept count of 685 companies and firms which had raised wages, the number of employes thus benefited having been 514 000 By and by it will be easier to take the national census and just subtract from it the number of workmen whose wages have not been increased

The Atlanta Exposition.

The Cotton States and International Exposition will open at Atlanta, Ga , Sept 18th, continuing until Dec 29th All the South is joining to make the affair as extensive and successful as possible, the main effort being to make it the greatest, most notable exposition ever held within its area Extensive arrangements are being made for the comfort of the thousands of visitors, a complete Department of Public Comfort and scores of substantial new hotels having been erected The leading industries of the South are vieing with each other in the extent and excellence of exhibits Sept 18th will be Opening Day and Liberty Bell Day, Oct 9th Chicago Day, Oct 10th to 17th, Farmer's National Congress and Woman's National Council Days, Oct 23d, President's Day, Oct. 26–31, Educational Congress Days Oct 27th, Pennsylvania Day Nov 12th, Georgia Day

One of the greatest spectacular performances at the Exposition will be the reproduction in fire works of the storming of Wei hai-wei in the recent war between China and Japan The performance will begin with the first night of the Exposition and continue every night for nearly a month Hundreds of Chinese and Japanese will be in the production, and the sight will be extremely realistic The attack of the Japs will be made from the lake in ships modeled after the Japanese war vessels The storming parties will land in the face of a terrific cannonade and the City of Wei hai wei will be taken by storm Over a thousand dollars' worth of fireworks will be burned at every performance

One interesting feature of the Woman's Exhibit at the Atlanta Exposition will be a collection of musical compositions, photographs and autographs of all women composers, singers and pianists of present or past distinction at home or abroad The purpose of this exhibit is to give an impetus to musical composition in America, and in order that the collection may be as complete as possible the committee having the matter in charge earnestly request contributions of woman's work in this line Mrs. Theodore Sutro, of New York city, will ship the exhibits

Yager and the Map Man.

A ring of the door bell by a map peddler is what brought Herr Hans Yager to his front door, where the following conversation took place

"Good morning, sir I've got a very nice map of Kentucky here I'd like you to look at "

"Vell, I look at him "

"I had better go in the house and show it to you "

"I tinks you outside petter schtay you got more room dere "

"Well, now you see on this side is a map of Kentucky, while on this side (turning it around to him) is a map of the United States "

"Och, I don'd puy me no sich map like dose "

"Why? What's your objection to it?"

"Vhy it don'd vas gorrect "

"And why isn't it correct ?"

"Don'd you got some sense? Don'd you know dot Gentucky vas in the United Schtates und not on der odder side fon it? You'm a hellum a map bedlar "

"Oh, sir, but you have a wrong idea of the map It contains the United States on this side you see, with Kentucky in them "

"Vell den, how Gentucky him got on de odder side? Got more secesh pisiness No sir-e Bob I don'd dose map vant I got me genough fou secesh vhen him vas here pefore yit I peen on dot run Bull Run, und aldough I den got me safe on Vashington I don'd can'd do dot now No-sir-e, I don'd vant no sich map like dose, vhere vone Schatte in der Union schump oud "

As Herr Hans closed the door and went back into the house, the map man didn't press a sale any further

He Made a Break.

The other day a Bismarck gentleman was coming up from Standing Rock and stopped to see a man who lives near the Cannon Ball River In response to his knock at the door he heard a shrill sharp "Come in," and upon entering found a sharp-faced, angular woman sitting in the room under an open scuttle hole leading into the loft above, with a shot-gun on her knee

"Is the gentleman of the house in?" asked the newcomer

"Yes, sir, he air "

"Can I see him a moment ?"

"No, sir, you can't see a hide nor hair of him "

"Why can't I, madam ? I would like to speak to him on business "

"If you was a dyin an' Jim was the only doctor in Dakoty you couldn't sot an eye on him till he gives in an' talks decent At dinner awhile ago he told me to pass 'im the apple soss, an' I tol' 'im it wasn't soss, but sass, an' he said he knowed better, it was soss, an I tol' 'im that w'en he tuk a notion that a little apple sass'd feel soothin to his stummick to say so, an' he said he'd have that soss er die Then I tol' him I'd defend that sass with life and made a break for the shot-gun, an' he made a break up through the scuttle hole into the loft W'en his senses come to 'im an' he gives in that soss is sass he kin come down, but if he makes a break afore that, off goes the top of his head Thar sets the sass, stranger, an' thar's Jim up in the loft, an' that's the way the matter stands just now, an' I reckon you'd better mosey along an' not git mixed up into the row "

As the gentleman moved away he heard her voice saying

"Jim, w'en you git tired o' yer durned foolin' an' want this sass, just squeal out."

And a gruff voice from the darksome garret responded

"Soss !"

Precautions When Kissing.

Chicago health officers have issued a manifesto against kissing It is pronounced dangerous If, however, circumstances make it necessary, the lips, according to a Chicago health officer, should be prepared by an application of carbolized rose water. Chicago young men will doubtless soon "catch on." No matter how forbidding his charmer may seem, the odor of carbolized-rose water will inform him what is expected Should the cruel parent object, she can say on official information that "it will do no harm " Vaseline has been suggested, but everybody objects to that Every lady is recommended to carry a bottle of carbolized rose water suspended from her belt, to be ready for emergencies.

Electricity vs. Steam.

The prediction of those that electricity will, before many years, entirely supplant steam as a motive power on railroads is gaining believers and one of the best evidences of the coming change is the number of roads making or about to make experiments with the new agent Among these, we learn from the Baltimore News, is the Baltimore and Ohio, which will use electricity through the Belt Tunnel, and if the plan proves successful, of which there is little doubt, it is not too much to prophesy that the same motive power will then be used on the line between Washington and Baltimore and later upon all its lines The whole railroad world will at least watch the Belt Tunnel experiment with the greatest interest

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Company is experimenting with electricity, and the Pennsylvania decided a short time ago to substitute the same power for steam on its branch line between Burlington and Mount Holly, New Jersey Should this prove to be satisfactory, it is thought the next step will be to employ the same means of locomotion on the New York and Philadelphia Division The New York Central announces semi officially that it has decided to substitute electricity for steam in its passenger service between Buffalo and Niagara Falls The power for the propulsion of the cars will be taken from the Niagara Falls plant, and the Buffalo Falls Line will, in all probability, be the experimental point upon which the Central will build its plans for a further development of electrical travel

The advantages of electricity over steam in the running of railroads are becoming apparent The cost of repairs of electric motors is less than that of steam locomotives, because the mechanism is far more simple Second, more miles are run per day or more hours of service are obtained per day, with electric motors than with steam locomotives Third, the electric motors used to move a train can be placed under one of the cars, thus reducing the weight of the train Fourth the electric motor is smokeless and the cars are therefore entirely free from most disagreeable accompaniments, especially during the summer months. These are decidedly great advantages such as must have their weight upon economic grounds even if electric power be not superior in other ways

It is impossible even to predict what wonderful changes will be wrought by the use of electricity before the beginning of the year 1900

The Value of Fertilizers.

Secretary of Agriculture Edge will issue a bulletin this fall devoted entirely to commercial fertilizers the cause composition, value and practical results Circulars have been sent out from the Department of Agriculture to many of the leading and most practical farmers in the State asking them to furnish the result of their experience with fertilizers upon crops produced on their farms

The bulletin will be used for reference and as it will not be for advertising purposes no special brand or make of fertilizers will be mentioned Each one who contributes to the bulletin will receive a copy gratuitously Secretary Edge is also preparing a bulletin showing the average price of farm produce in the several Legislative districts of the State

New Remedy for Insomnia

An expert in nervous disorders in Paris recommended to an American gentleman a cure for insomnia which was tried with such success that the patient has prescribed it to many of his friends It is simply to keep your eyes open when you want to go to sleep and cannot A person whose brain is too active will sometimes close the eyes and vainly endeavor to sleep The very closing of the eyes seems to concentrate the mental faculties on business affairs and other distractions The theory of the French physician is that if the victim of insomnia will fix his eyes upon some gleam of light, some shadow, or even on the darkness itself he can relieve his mind from thoughts that perplex it and divert attention from himself Try the experiment when you are sleepless and see how unconsciously your eyes will close and your thoughts begin to take possession of you Struggle to keep them open and fixed upon an object either real or imaginary and before you are aware of it the struggle will have ended and sleep will be victorious

France Follows Uncle Sam

Washington, Aug 7 —News has just reached the Navy Department that the French Government has shown its appreciation of its fine capabilities of the fleet cruiser Columbia by ordering the immediate construction of two vessels as nearly a duplicate of the famous American flyer as can be made in the absence of our exact plans

They are to be known as "Croiseur-Corsaires" or pirate cruisers, and notwithstanding the criticisms that have been passed upon the Columbia because of her light battery, these French cruisers will have still smaller calibre guns, the largest being but 6-5 inches as against 8-inch guns for the Columbia

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION

In accordance with the resolution passed at a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee on July 2d, 1895, I hereby give notice that the Democrats of Pennsylvania by their duly chosen representatives will meet in State Convention in Williamsport on WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11th 1895, at 10 o'clock a m, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the office of State Treasurer and Judges of the Superior Court, and for the transaction of such other business as may be presented.

In accordance with Rule 6, Section 1, unanimously approved by the State Convention September 29, 1893, representatives shall consist of representative delegates, one for each one thousand votes cast at the last preceding Presidential election or for a fraction of such vote amounting to five hundred or more, in the respective representative districts, provided that each representative district shall have at least one delegate

R E WRIGHT, Chairman.
MATT SAVAGE, Sec'y.

DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY OF PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 6, 1895 — By direction of the Executive Committee the General Assembly of the Democratic Societies of Pennsylvania is hereby called to meet at 11 o'clock a m, on Thursday, September 5th, a Lancaster. This will furnish the opportunity for a gathering of the active Democrats of the State, in one mighty assemblage, to take counsel together in the interests of Democratic harmony and Democratic organization, for the good of the party alone, and where their deliberations will be disturbed by no contentions over offices or nominations

Lancaster is easy of access, and the beautiful and hospitable city is making every preparation for the entertainment of the guests Many societies will attend in full force with their banners and bands Besides the deputies and regular club men the best speakers in the Commonwealth and others will be present to address the assembly and the people in mass meeting

All Democrats are invited

It will be a grand congress of the Democrats of Pennsylvania for mutual counsel and encouragement It will probably be the largest political assemblage in the history of the State, and will show that we expect to carry our State ticket this fall, and it is believed that with proper organization and united efforts all that is predicted will be accomplished in the November returns

HE who was Clerk of the House now a newspaper man put on the warpaint Saturday and tackled the 3d ward but, alas, not only the 3d but the other two were not for Hastings

A STRAIGHT TICKET

The ticket nominated by the Democratic convention last Monday a week is recognized as an exceptionally good one It is a good ticket and it is receiving the support of all Democrats because it was the choice of the whole party made through the representatives of the voters in all the sections of our county The delegates went into convention for the good of the party and nominated such men as they thought best It gave its attention to the business before it in a business like way There were no factional differences, no dictation, no interference on the part of anybody Everything was done in the spirit of fairness and good will This is the right kind of a convention

We are glad to say that the factional troubles, which we may as well recognize as important factors in the campaign of last fall and by reason of which we were in part defeated, played no part in the doings of the last convention and for that reason the ticket nominated is receiving the support of our whole party.

Not only does the character of the men on the ticket point to a Democratic victory this fall but, also, the existing and well founded dissatisfaction with the Republican administration of county and State affairs

How does the Star reconcile its claim of neutrality in the Hastings Quay fight with the fact that one of its proprietors ran as a Hastings delegate in this ward and worked hard for the nomination?

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

The Republicans had, yesterday, one of the most extraordinary conventions ever held in this county It is customary for different factions of the same party to try to be friendly but yesterday the Hastings people were so jubilent over their victory that they took every opportunity to make the Quay people feel it, and they did it well

Common decency ought to have suggested to minds of the Hastings faction that their opponents should have a little representation at least, but they got absolutely none The Quay people were simply shoved to one side and that ended it

Parliamentary rules were not observed When a division was called the Chairman refused to recognize it and declared Curtens and Garlach elected

It was not a convention of Republicans, but purely a convention of the opponents of Senator Quay In the morning when the delegates came in the Hastings workers took them in charge, instructed them and marched them to the convention like a gang of soldiers who obey as they are commanded The Quay people, doubtless anticipating fairness, and some show at least, went into the convention like ordinary people, but came out of it undeceived

We have never seen one section of a party so entirely indifferent to the good will and claims of the other side Evidently the Hastings party, having the Star with them, consider themselves the Republican party

It is, as we expected the intention to kick Quay and his party straightway and unceremoniously out of the G O P

What a difference between this riotous, divided convention and the manly, straightforward meeting of Democrats the week before.

THE political editor of the Star is now shaving in the 3d ward He paid $9 for the first job on Saturday

SPEAKING OF INCONSISTENCY.

It will be remembered that the Star and Sentinel has claimed to be neutral in the fight against Senator Quay. The following articles are all from the Star of last week

1 "All Republicans in favor of home rule, every one opposed to Cameron's re-election, all opposed to 'Boss' dictation, go to the primary election next Saturday and vote for the Hastings and Gilkeson delegates to the County Convention"

2 "Why does Quay want to be chairman for if not to help Cameron next year"

3 "Are you for Cameron's re-election to the Senate? If not can you consistently support Quay?"

4 "How can any man be against Cameron and support Quay for chairman?"

QUAY SAYS THAT HE WILL BE VICTORIOUS

Although the Senator has been somewhat reticent for the last several weeks he last Tuesday, had something to say as follows

"As I have already stated, I have not met Martin, nor have I met any member of the Combine since the present contest commenced I have made no proposition to any one and received no proposition from any one looking to its adjustment So far as the municipal rings of Philadelphia and Pittsburg, which have recently seized the State Government are concerned, there will not and cannot be any adjustment The warfare they have wantonly and maliciously inaugurated will go forward until I am eliminated from Pennsylvania politics or they have become a nightmare of the past It is of necessity a battle for good government and better politics and whatever the outcome of August 29 it will go on and the end is certain"

Mr Quay is not a politician to be treated lightly. If he means what he says the warfare will continue to the bitter end He has been the Republican leader in this State too long to be pushed aside without serious consequences. A great majority of the Republicans in this State are his followers, his friends, and, seemingly, they will stick to him through thick and thin If a man of such power carries a fight forward until his opponents have become "a nightmare of the past" dire consequences will befall somebody

There is some reason in Mr Quay's statement that he will be elected By this election he means that he will continue to hold his past position and power in the ranks of the G O P Almost all of the recent conventions throughout the Commonwealth have elected delegates favoring Mr Quay The purpose of his opponents, the Combine has been clearly disclosed Gov Hastings is becoming even more repulsive to Republican voters than when he was running the late Legislature for sellish and partizan ends A large majority of the liberal newspapers of the State are for Mr Quay His friends are the most determined There is ground, therefore for his claim

It would be seen that in this fight against Mr Quay there is really no reason The opposition to him is caused purely by jealousy and selfishness His position as leader of the Republican party interferes with the ambitious aims of Gov Hastings and the money grabbers of Philadelphia This same spirit of selfishness animates the office seekers all over the State, in Adams county as elsewhere They are for themselves whatever becomes of the party This feeling has disrupted parties heretofore and this time the result will be in the usual line Pennsylvania's big Republican majority is running the usual course It will continue to dwindle away

THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AND TEMPERANCE.

Last Wednesday representatives of the 800 Catholic Total Abstinence Societies met in annual national convention in New York city A part of President Father McCleary's report is as follows "With our ever increasing advantages of education and mental culture, with the school house within sight of every man's door anxiously inviting all the children of men to drink at the fountains of knowledge, there need not be, and there should not be, a poor man's child in all this fair land cursed with the darkness of ignorance, were it not for the beastliness of intemperance that brutalizes the lives of the poor

"Our church has again and again voiced its convictions in no uncertain terms There can be no affiliation between the church and the saloon The church will not and can not permit that the drinking den shall flourish beneath the shadow of the consecrated house of prayer A man cannot be a good Catholic, a faithful and docile child of the church and continue in the unbecoming business of conducting a liquor saloon

"America must be rescued from the slavery of the drink curse, and the church, in this fairest field for work, must win this glorious land to the intelligent service of God by the loveliness of her children's lives."

Town Council Proceedings.

The regular monthly meeting of Council occurred on Tuesday evening, President Wolf in the chair The other members present were Messrs Troxel, Minnigh, Trostle, Garvin and Myer

Mr Troxel of the committee appointed to see Mr Jos J Smith concerning the purchase of the land on which the quarry is located (at the crusher) reported that Mr Smith did not want to sell, but was willing to reduce the price of stone from 10 to 5 cents per perch, to lease the land for a term of years and give the privilege of using the quarry hole as a dumping place After discussion it was decided to continue the committee

At the last meeting a committee was appointed to inquire into the sewer question, more especially the claims of Mr R D Armor Mr Troxel, of this committee, said they considered the most feasable plan to dig a Mr Armor wants $100 to release all damages, but the committee believes others will come in with similar demands He considered the worst place to be where the sewer entered Rock creek Mr Garvin moved the appointment of a committee to look up the purchase of a lot for the cesspool and the advisability of a filter He had looked over the situation and could smell nothing in the water in the stream in question but gas tar He thought Stevens run at the Flour Mill looked worse than down there Burgess Wible said the water was clear and did not smell bad The motion prevailed and Messrs Troxel, Myer and Minnigh were appointed the committee

Mr J O Blocher was present and asked that a fire plug be placed at the corner of Hay and Springs avenues, as that section did not have adequate fire protection He also asked for the erection of an electric light there, as already located Mr Troxel moved that the Highway committee see if the hose will reach the buildings on Seminary ridge from the plug on Chambersburg street, if not, then to put in the plug The motion carried

An ordinance regulating bicycles in the town was adopted, which has strict rules It can be seen in our advertising columns

It was decided without opposition to ordain an alley of 12 feet width from Baltimore street, at a point on lands of W S Duttera, through lot of Mrs I M Huber, to Washington street, at corner of F P Wisotzkey's lot

An alley beginning at an alley south of lots on Breckenridge street, starting in rear of A Fritter's row of houses and continuing across South street to intersect with above ordained alley was ordered

Burgess Wible vetoed the ordinance adopted at the last meeting ordaining the Chambersburg pike in the following

To the Honorable the Town Council of the Borough of Gettysburg

The above ordinance is respectfully returned not approved for the following reasons

1 That we have been informed by counsel that the ordinance as framed will in no way increase the rights of the Borough on this road

2 That the ordinance calls for a street 50 ft wide this is the exact width of the Turnpike Company's franchise, and following the legal opinion received the property owners could not lay the usual foot walk on this street as ought to be laid out by this ordinance, nor could the Council compel pavements to be laid on it Thus one of the most important parts of this street would be absent

3 That it is useless to enact and approve ordinances that in no wise increase or change rights

4 Your ordinance was also passed without indicating the name the street should bear

Fully believing that this road should be properly ordained as a street yet we are firmly convinced that it would be unwise to approve this ordinance as enacted, and that its failure in its present shape would be the best both for the abutting property owners and the town generally There fore the ordinance (with objections) is returned for your reconsideration

WM H WIBLE
Chief Burgess

At Mr Garvin's motion, the veto was unanimously sustained and an ordinance making the street 60 feet wide and calling it Buford street was passed Mr Troxel claimed that it was not clear as to the duties of the pike authorities, whether they or the Borough should fill up the gutters Mr Minnigh thought the move a correct one He referred to Baltimore street, where the Company pays $50 a year Differing from the plan adopted when the Baltimore street compromise was effected, he favored ordaining and then making arrangements for keeping up repairs Borough Attorney Hersh said the Council could not be held responsible for accidents and could compel the Turnpike Company to fill up gutters and come to proper grade

Under discussion of the monthly pay roll, the Surveyor's bill brought out considerable discussion, Mr Trostle objecting to the rates charged for furnishing grades, because the Borough charges 50 cents for a permit while it costs $5 00 to get the grade He thought it would be better to have the whole town plotted and save this ever recurring expense Mr Minnigh followed with objections and moved it be referred to the Finance committee

The electric light bill $195, though the lights generally were below contract price, was passed at $171 22 Mr Minnigh was emphatic in the opinion that one half the bill should have been deducted, believing the Council is paying for twice what it is getting Mr Troxel and he agreed with Mr Minnigh in the idea that the electric light company should be paid for what they furnished, on the same principle as all business men deal But, at the same time, members of Council should deal with the electric company just as they would with individuals Mr Garvin moved the payment of the light bill, $171 22, and that if next month the lights are not better the whole bill shall be cancelled and the motion carried

The bill of Col C H Buehler was reduced on account of some lumber at the stone bins not suitable for the purpose Also the bill of Jos J Smith for labor on erecting the bins at quarry was objected to, they not being properly constructed for utility or strength The question was left for further discussion and adjustment

Mr Minnigh called attention to the defective condition of the crossings at the Eagle Hotel at J A Tawney's and at E P Wisotzkey's where the iron work put in by the Trolley impedes the proper drainage of Washington and other streets Mr Troxel referred to the condition of Baltimore street where no repairs had been made between the tracks or on either side He said the Highway committee was doing considerable work on the sides, but this was of little account unless the contract made by Mr Hoffer be carried out The Borough attorney was instructed to notify Mr Hoffer to immediately fulfill his part of the contract and fix up the part of the streets on which the cars run

No account having been taken of the different notices to repair pavements in front of properties of the M Spangler property on Baltimore street, the Highway committee was instructed to have new pavement laid They were also empowered to repair the Borough pavements around the Diamond

Mr Troxel reported the bridge over Steven's run, on Carlisle street, as having defective sills and suggested the purchase of old railroad iron and the use of stone to replace the old wooden structure The matter was left in the hands of the Highway committee

Supt Warner reported that he had quarried 1 000 feet of flag stone, much of which was used in covering the gutter where Steinwehr avenue intersects with Baltimore street, and that this work accounted for the increased pay-roll for the month

A crossing was ordered where Water street opens into Washington street

On motion of Mr Trostle it was decided to purchase from Mr R H Currens, a portable engine to run the crusher, the price being $150 The engine is second hand, though in good repair Mr Minnigh preferred a stationary engine with a pump to draw water from Rock creek

The Highway committee was instructed to inquire into the ownership of Long Lane

President Wolf spoke at some length on the need of money to keep up with expenses, the crusher and expenses connected there with having depleted the treasury The question of issuing more bonds was discussed, but, in the absence of Mr Meals, of the Finance committee, the question was left for future decision

Mr Amos Eckert objected to the wet condition in which his pavement was kept by the constant use of the pump in front of his place, but was assured that the matter would be remedied when the pavement repairs were made

SMALL BEGINNINGS Make great endings sometimes Ailments that we are apt to consider trivial often grow, through neglect into atrocious maladies, dangerous in themselves and productive of others It is the disregard of the earlier indications of ill health which leads to the establishment of all sorts of maladies on a chronic basis Moreover there are certain disorders incident to the season such as malaria and rheumatism, against which it is always desirable to fortify the system after exposure to the conditions which produce them Cold damp and miasma are surely counteracted by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters After you have incurred risk from these influences a wineglassful or two of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters directly afterward should be swallowed For malaria, dyspepsia, liver complaint, kidney and bladder trouble, nervousness and debility it is the most deservedly popular of remedies and preventives A wineglassful before meals promotes appetite

The Hand of Death.

William Ruff.

After disability and illness extending over half a year, during which he several times gave evidence of ultimate recovery, Mr Wm Ruff one of our best known and most esteemed citizens, succumbed to a complication of diseases on Tuesday evening at 7 30, the end coming very peacefully. He was a native of Conowago township, son of John and Elizabeth Ruff, born Oct 4th 1831. On the 18th of October, 1853, he was married to Miss Susan Snyder, daughter of the late George Snyder of Mountjoy township. Their only child, Mary Lizzie, died July 29, 1869, aged 15 years. In early life Mr Ruff engaged in the huckstering business and moved to this place April 1, 1870, entering the grocery business on Baltimore Hill, which he conducted in most satisfactory manner for about ten years in the meantime devoting a portion of his time to farming, where his practical methods and good judgment made him equally successful. Always an active man, after leaving the [illegible] he entered the boot and shoe business, in which he remained till the time of his death. He is survived by a widow and the following brothers and sisters: Charles H of this place, John L and Daniel, of New Oxford, Mrs Kate Barnes, of Philadelphia, Mrs Joseph Krumrine, of Littlestown, Mrs Daniel H Ditzler, of McSherrystown, and Mrs Emma L King, of Hamilton township. About 40 years ago he joined Gettys Lodge, No 124, I O O F, of this place, and his funeral was attended by the officers of the Lodge. At his late residence, on Friday afternoon, Rev A R Steck, Pastor of St James Lutheran church (of which our subject was an active member, holding offices of honor and trust) conducted the services in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends. The bearers were Messrs Aaron Sheely, D Jerome Swartz, Ferdinand Warner, John Sweeney, Jacob H Baker and J H Myers. Interment occurred at Evergreen Cemetery. In the death of Mr Ruff our town loses a business man of ripe judgment, modest and conservative in the expression of opinion, his advice was always safe

Ephraim Deardorff

That dread affliction, Bright's disease has claimed another victim in this vicinity this time a venerable and well known citizen of Straban township Mr Ephraim Deardorff. While complaining for one year, he was in bed but five weeks, patiently bearing his sufferings and passing peacefully away on the 8th instant, aged 73 years 6 months and 19 days. For over 60 years he lived where his death occurred, enjoying the respect and esteem of all who knew him, for many years filling the office of Deacon in the German Baptist or Dunkard church. His remains were interred at Plountz's grave yard, near the church where for so many years he had worshipped, the funeral procession, on Sunday morning, being one of the largest known here in recent years, including the family, relatives and a large number of neighbors and friends who paid respect for the memory of one beloved by all. Elder Ephraim Stoner, of Union Bridge, delivered the sermon at the church, and Elder C L Pfoutz made an address at the house. He is survived by his second wife, Ann, a daughter of Abraham Lott deceased, of Mountjoy township also by four sons and four daughters: Rev J W D Deardorff of Mountjoy township, Chas H Deardorff of this place, L Oscar and Wm H, living at home, Misses Sarah E, Margarette and Lizzie, and Mrs Annie B Hollinger

Dr James W Eichelberger, Sr

Dr Eichelberger, of Emmitsburg, Md, died Monday, Aug 12, 1895, in his 92d year. He had the distinction of being the oldest resident of Emmitsburg and a practicing physician since 1829. About twelve years ago he gave up his large practice, owing to advanced years. Dr Eichelberger went to Emmitsburg about the year 1820. For several years he was engaged in the store of Isaac Baugher deceased. Deciding on the study of medicine, he entered the medical University of Maryland from which he graduated in 1827. So far as known he was the oldest graduate of that institution

He was married in 1829 to Miss Motter, sister of Lewis Motter, Esq. His wife preceded him to the eternal world in 1889. Two sons and two daughters survive to mourn their loss: Drs Chas D and James W Jr, Mrs M E Ehrhart and Miss Marion F Eichelberger

With the exception of about six years spent in Woodsboro, Frederick county, Dr Eichelberger was engaged in the practice of medicine in Emmitsburg, covering an actual practice of 60 years. He enjoyed the highest esteem of a very large circle of friends. For many years he was superintendent of the Lutheran Sunday School, and an elder in the church. During the past three years he has been in frail health. Funeral services will take place in Emmitsburg Lutheran church, Wednesday afternoon

Sunday School Pic Nic at Pine Grove Park

On Thursday next a grand union Sunday school pic nic will be held at Pine Grove Park, embracing schools along the line of the G & H R R, from Gettysburg to Idaville. This well known pleasure resort has been improved and other attractions added, including the ride to Mt McLeod, in the observation car, which leaves the Park every hour. The Arendtsville Band will furnish music. A special train will leave Gettysburg at 7 45 a m, stopping at all stations to and including Idaville, as follows: Gettysburg, 7,45, Goldenville 7 57, Table Rock, 7 59, Biglerville, 8 04, Sunnyside, 8 08, Centre Mills, 8 11, Bendersville, 8 14, Gardners, 8 21, Idaville, 8 23. Returning, leave Park at 5 p m. Fare from all points, 50 cents. Children between the ages of 5 and 12 years, 25 cents

A Heavy Roller.

The new steam roller, weighing about 15 tons, to be used in compacting the new battlefield avenues has arrived and was taken to the beginning of Section 4 of Confederate avenue, but has not yet been given a thorough test, on account of the extreme dry weather. Work is now in progress on Section 7, at the southwest base of Round-Top. The Messrs Farrell have been awarded the contract for Telfordizing Hancock avenue from the gates at the Taneytown road to where the avenue joins Sedgwick avenue, at the intersection of the U S avenue, which crosses to the Emmitsburg road

THERE will be a prohibition rally in the Court-house, Gettysburg, Tuesday evening, Aug 20th, to be addressed by Quincy Lee Morrow, of Maryland, and other speakers. Singing by Mr and Mrs. C C Beveridge, the celebrated Nebraska vocalists

I. O. O. F. at Round-Top.

On Saturday next Gettys Lodge of Odd Fellows, of this place, will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the institution of that Lodge at Round-Top Park, August 17, in a grand picnic, and re-union at which the Grand Lodge officers will attend and to which all the lodges of the county have been invited. Members of lodges in other counties will be present, and the general public is invited.

NEW ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

An Air Line From Washington Northward to Gettysburg—An Important Project—Statement By Alex D Anderson in Charge of the Movement

In an interview with Alex D Anderson, in charge of the movement for promoting the construction of an electric railway from Washington to Gettysburg the Westminster Democratic Advocate secured the following interesting statement explaining the plans and enterprises of the enterprise

"A few weeks ago," says Mr Anderson, "I was retained by the directors of the Westminster and Union Mills Electric Railway Company to formulate and develop a plan for direct railway connection with Washington. In examining the project I was surprised at the open and inviting field so greatly in need of a railway. It is without doubt the one weak spot in the transportation facilities of Washington—a gap which should have been filled long ago. The area without any existing north and south railway contains 1,240 square miles or nearly the same as that of the whole State of Rhode Island

The length of the area on an air line from the District boundary to Gettysburg is sixty six miles

The air line distances from town to town, going northward from Washington are as follows

	Miles
District line to Sandy Springs	11
Sandy Springs to Sykesville	17
Sykesville to Westminster	15
Westminster to Union Mills	6
Union Mills to Littlestown	7
Littlestown to Gettysburg	10
Total	66

The actual railway line will, of course, be a few miles longer, probably about seventy two miles

The area in the State of Maryland to be benefited includes the larger portions of Montgomery county, all of Howard and Carroll, and part of Frederick, in Pennsylvania it includes most of Adams county. As a whole it is highly elevated and healthy, exceedingly fertile and productive and the people are unusually thrifty as may be seen by reference to a few official statistics

As it is difficult to subdivide the census statistics of counties, I will omit those of the fractional part of Frederick county and take those of the four counties to be directly interested by the proposed railway

According to the census of 1890 the total population of these counties was as follows

Montgomery	27 185
Howard	28,[illegible]
Carroll	32,[illegible]
Adams	33,486
Total	122,000

In brief, 270,000 people in the District of Columbia and 122,000 people in a country naturally tributary to Washington have no adequate facilities for social and commercial intercourse. They are practically as far apart as if living in separate and distant States. Such a condition of affairs may be termed a commercial absurdity. It is unprogressive, and therefore un-American

The assessed valuation of the real and personal property of the four counties was during the census year 1890, as follows:

Montgomery	$9,827,[illegible]
Howard	7,018,000
Carroll	16,[illegible]88,148
Adams	15,[illegible]
Total	$48,6[illegible]0,7[illegible]0

Great as is this valuation, it will be very materially increased by better transportation facilities for the shipment of their products to Washington and by the new material development and progress which the road will inevitably stimulate.

As a through line it does not terminate in the woods but begins and ends at places of national importance for it connects the national capital with the greatest national military park, made so by an act of Congress approved only a few months ago

Nearly $4,000,000 had already been spent in monuments and other improvements on this park before the government took charge, and now it is expected that many more millions will be spent in a very few years

There is an average of fifty national conventions, scientific, educational, commercial, political, etc., held in Washington each year, attracting delegates and visitors from all parts of the United States and frequently from foreign countries. A large number of these people desire to visit Gettysburg. In addition private parties of tourists, Grand Army and Confederate veterans and others may be seen upon the battlefield every day in the year. The number will double when the transportation facilities are adequate

How great will be the saving of distance, time and expense between Washington and Gettysburg may be seen by contrasting the proposed electric railway with the existing steam road

The customary route at present is by steam via Baltimore and Hanover. The distance is 112 miles. The electric line will be inside of seventy five miles, or a saving in distance of at least thirty seven miles

The time by steam road is about four hours. By the direct electric line it will be about two and one half hours, or a saving of one and one half hours

The fare by steam road is $3.35. By the electric road it will probably not exceed $1.50, making a saving of $1.85

In addition to these advantages the electric line will furnish great attractions in scenery, for it will while passing through a charming and rolling country, be most of the way in sight of the parallel and ever attractive Blue Ridge mountains

CONNECTION WITH BALTIMORE

It is the wish of Governor Brown, of Maryland, who is an earnest advocate of the proposed electric road between Washington and Gettysburg that Baltimore have connection with it at three different points, viz

1 At a point directly west of Baltimore. This can easily be accomplished by prolonging for a few miles the electric roads soon to be built from Baltimore to Ellicott City

2 At Eldersburg, in Carroll county. This requires but a short line running westward from the new electric road if ready in operation from Baltimore to Reisterstown

3 At Westminster, by the extension of the road already complete to Reisterstown, as above stated

When one takes into consideration the immense area between Washington and Gettysburg with no north and south railway, the large and thrifty population, the attractiveness of the country and the surrounding scenery, its great wealth, the freight and passenger business already awaiting the opening of the road, the immense local as well as through business, three proposed feeders from Baltimore, the advantageous entrance to Washington, the fact that each end of the line is a place of national importance and a great resort for people from all parts of the world, the immense time in saving expense and distance between the two points contrasted with the present roundabout route, the financial success of the project cannot for one moment be doubted. Instead of the road waiting for business, an immense business is already waiting for the road, and when open, the volume of that business will soon be doubled

In this era of electric railway building particularly in the suburbs of great cities it is doubtful if anywhere else in the United States so open, inviting and promising a field can be found as that between Washington and Gettysburg

The parties back of the movement are intensely in earnest, and the project is well under way and rapidly taking shape. It is hoped that the north and south trunk line, together with the three branches to Baltimore will be complete and in operation before the opening of the Baltimore Centennial Exposition in May, 1897

ON Tuesday, August 20th, Bob Hunting's Big Railroad Shows, Circus, Museum and Menagerie, will visit Gettysburg and spread his enormous tent on Franklin street. The good standing of this show precedes it through the columns of all our exchanges, and it must be one of the very best circus performances and altogether one of the cleanest shows now traveling 1t

HASTINGS WINS.

The Quay People Deliberately Kicked Out.

GARLACH AND CURRENS, HASTINGS MEN, THE DELEGATES TO THE STATE CONVENTION.

For the purpose of giving our readers an account of the Republican convention which took place yesterday morning we need not consider Mr Quay's friends at all, for they had no part in the convention whatever

At 10 35 o'clock the Hastings forces, lead by Himes, of New Oxford and Currens of Highland township marched into the court room and took their seats in a body, on the right hand side of the room. Marshalling these forces were J B McPherson, Dr Hollinger, Winfield Schroder and John C Schriver

The Quay people were told to take the other side. Their only leaders who were with them were John C Lower and J W Moore

This arrangement was a new thing in conventions and was not quite at first, understood by Mr Quay's friends but they soon found out that they were not to be in the convention. They sat by themselves in the left hand side. It was not hard to see that they were startled with this evident attempt to give them no show whatever, nevertheless when they were given an opportunity they voted in a body in the interests of their leaders

Everything was cut and dried by the Hastings people and they evidently took delight in showing their power. They marched in their men like sheep to the slaughter and voted them just as Himes said "All up"—standing votes

Even County Chairman G L Young was deliberately snubbed. Himes got up nominated Dr E [illegible] Sheets for chairman of the convention and put it to a vote. Of course all the Hastings people said "I" but Young being in a fighting mood anyhow, objected thereupon a fight with words began. Somebody yelled "put Himes out." He was patiently [illegible] and chairman Young put the vote. Dr Myers, of Hampton was the Quay nominee. Sheets was elected by a vote of 2[illegible] against 2[illegible] for Myers

One of the delegates from New Oxford being absent it was moved that Mr Himes be substituted. He being a Hastings man was substituted as desired. The Bendersville delegation, being without credentials, Mr Himes objected to their voting. As they would have voted for Quay they were not allowed to vote at all, the Hastings people [illegible] as Mr Himes [illegible]. All the while Young was getting madder and with [illegible] for Himes was trying to run the thing. [illegible] Cook [illegible] Oxford, being for Quay [illegible] thing were not going his way rose up from [illegible] the whole [illegible] himself [illegible] Then up [illegible] Himes would have a row but when the thing began to look interesting Chairman Young interfered and put an end to the [illegible] the convention and the weather

Occasionally some one in the [illegible] would sing out [illegible] "Nothing here [illegible] You can't [illegible]" [illegible] This expression coupled with the [illegible] kept things noisy

Now once [illegible] Chairman Sheets taken the chair than it became apparent [illegible] and the way in which he treated the Quay people was [illegible] shutting them out at every turn. Indeed he did not even look in their direction. He appointed all of the officers from among the Hastings crowd. The Quay people did not have one man in the organization

Secretaries were [illegible] W [illegible] and C D South

Vice presidents were Ephraim Myers [illegible] and Wm [illegible] of [illegible]

Tellers were Charles [illegible] and [illegible] Weybright

After this part of the program had been gone through with Mr Himes rose up and offered a resolution which he was to the effect that in voting the delegates should take the [illegible] to delegate to the State Convention as [illegible] should [illegible] by districts. It was of course carried

Nominations for delegates being in order the following were presented: [illegible] Currens of Highland [illegible] of York Springs, J W Garlach [illegible] Gettysburg and James W Moore of [illegible] The vote being taken [illegible] for Currens and Garlach [illegible] for [illegible] Moore [illegible] the Hastings crowd shouted and waved their hats, but the other side of the house looked sad and hurt

[illegible]

The Combine, local and state won without a slip. They had everything lively and let the Quay people know it in the most exasperating ways

In the selection of a county ticket there was no trouble

John M. Blocher, of Gettysburg, had no opposition and was declared the nominee for Prothonotary

G. M. Raffensperger, of Hamilton township, was nominated for Director of the Poor

For Coroner Dr Myers, of Hampton and for County Surveyor O D McMillan, of Gettysburg, were nominated

Robert Wible, of this place, is Chairman of the county Committee

A Committee on resolutions was appointed by the Chair. It consisted of W H Himes, John C Schriver, C W Baum, Granville Shultz and Geo W Routsong

About 11 50 the delegates began to straggle out and the Convention adjourned until 1 30 p m

AFTERNOON SESSION

As it was to be expected not a Quay man was in his seat when the convention convened in the afternoon. Mr Himes rose to read the resolutions and stated that they were a matter of form. They were adopted by the Hastings men as none of the Quay people were present. These resolutions indorsed the administration of Gov Hastings and the management of county affairs by the Commissioners and the Directors of the Poor, urged the Republicans to vote for the ticket this fall and deplored Democratic mismanagement generally. After the reading of the resolutions the county committee was named and the convention adjourned

Holding Farm Product.

The Relative Shrinkage in Different Crops—Losses from Other Causes—Considerations Affecting Consumption.

The difference between the sum of money received for a certain farm product and the sum that would have been received had it been sold at the best time, is often sufficient to convert the possible profit on that product into a loss. When the account with the crop is balanced, and the loss is apparent, we are quick to say that the crop does not pay, when the trouble is not with the crop, but with our own judgment. I certainly make no pretentions to knowing when prices will go up, when they will go down, but it may be acceptable to recall attention to some facts and probabilities.

When considering the question of holding a crop, extraordinary estimates of shrinkage are often made. In the case of wheat, if it be dry when threshed, careful test has shown that the shrinkage in weight will be small. When it is very dry while being put into the bin, and is taken out during a long-continued rainy season, it is possible to have an actual gain in weight. This has occurred in a test at one of our stations. Owners of elevators calculate on a very small shrinkage, and in my own tests, which necessarily could not be as accurate as one would like, wheat, when threshed dry enough to store in perfect safety, looses not over 1½ per cent. in weight when kept secure from vermin. At present prices of wheat, this loss is less than one cent per bushel.

In the case of corn, it is far different. Corn is ready for the crib while it yet contains a high per cent. of water. Its state of dryness at cribbing time is so variable that a gentleman who grows fifty thousand bushels of corn per year, and puts all on the scales before cribbing, told me that he could not make any average in shrinkage that would be valuable to him as a guide. The season has much to do with the matter. However, taking corn "as soon as it is ready to crib," as a rule is, numerous experiments indicate that there will be a loss in weight between cribbing time and the next June of 15 to 18 per cent.

The probable loss in potatoes is yet more difficult to estimate. Much depends upon the way in which they are kept. In the latitude of Ohio, I am convinced that the man who can have for market in April 80 bushels of potatoes for each 100 bushels stored in a cellar soon after digging, has done fairly well. This loss includes the rotting to be found in a normally healthy lot of tubers. When one buries the potatoes, if the weather is cold enough to prevent sprouting, the loss may be reduced to ten per cent.

When deciding the question of selling or storing any product, the chance of heavy loss from insects, heat, frost or other cause, is not usually given due weight. Just as fire may never have damaged us, and yet we are willing to pay a certain per cent. for insurance against loss in that way, so we must have a certain per cent. margin for risk of damage in the ways mentioned. Some time the damage may come, and the risk must be paid for if storing be justified. In estimating the cost of keeping a horse for a year, one rarely see an item covering the risk of death or serious injury, and in so far such estimates are faulty. In considering the matter of holding any farm product, a margin for risk of heavy loss must be allowed, if one would have an accurate basis for his decision in the matter.

It is usual to count interest on value of the product at current rates. This may be wholly incorrect. One requires a certain amount of working capital for the farm that cannot be placed so as to earn any interest off the farm. If a product is marketed by the time the money is needed in the farm operations, there is no loss of use of money, and no interest should be charged. On the other hand, if the produce is held on borrowed money, the cost of use of money is hardly a sufficiently large charge against the product, as it is extra hazardous to run any risks on another's money.

There is one factor in the regulation of prices often mentioned, and yet not always given due weight. When the earning capacity of the mass of consumers is small, prices cannot go very high for any great length of time, no matter what the shortage in production may be. Substitutes will be used, and a surplus will appear at the end of the season, if prices are forced high. Our statisticians tell us how many bushels of wheat and of potatoes an average person will eat, but especially in the case of potatoes, for which substitutes are easily found, we find that the average person does not eat any such quantity when the price becomes relatively high.

There is another influence upon prices to be given weight. In an era of low prices there is little faith in actual shortages or in high prices as a result of small production, and faith has much to do with the fixing of prices. Speculators have lost money so often by buying for a rise, that they are natural bears in the market. When the price of a product should rise, men will agree that it is so, and in the same breath say that they have no confidence. This lack of faith in rising prices is an influence we must count upon when inclined to wait for better prices.

There is one advantage in early sales that I find worth considering. Every farmer knows, or should know, how much money he must receive from sales each year to meet the ordinary expenses. If receipts are cut down by small crops and low prices, he must plan to cut down expense, or at least not to incur an extra expense in the way of improvements that will not repay the money in cash. When a big crop is stored in the expectation of better prices, one naturally figures receipts at the expected price, and if it is not realized, there is a disappointment, to say the least. By converting crops into money as soon as they are ready for market, it seems possible to do a safer business. There is less care and worry. On the other hand, when convinced that any product is selling temporarily at a price far lower than conditions justify, the profit that is obtained by holding goes to the one most deserving it — the producer. ALVA AGEE, in the Country Gentleman.

"THE growth of a few tiny rootlets," observed the teacher of the botany class, "has been known to lift a heavy rock from its place, and the root of a tree growing out under a stone sidewalk will sometimes push it up and break it. Other cases of a like nature showing the strong uplifting power of vegetable growth have occurred, I doubt not, within your own observation. Is it not so?" "Yes'm," said the boy with the faded hair. "I've heard my paw say his last year's corn crop lifted a mortgage off his farm."—Chicago Tribune.

Remember these Directions for using Cottolene

For shortening never use more than two-thirds as much Cottolene as you would of lard. When frying with Cottolene always put it in a cold pan, heating it with the pan. Cottolene produces the best results when very hot, but as it reaches the cooking point much sooner than lard, care should be taken not to let it burn—when hot enough, it will delicately brown a bit of bread in half a minute. Follow these directions in using Cottolene and lard will never again be permitted in your kitchen or in your food. Genuine Cottolene is sold everywhere in tins with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

Lesson in Horse Management.

Young man, I see you are about to take a drive this morning and will offer you some advice. Your horse is restive and wants to be off before you are ready; you may as well break him of this now as at any other time, and hereafter you will find it has been a half-hour well spent. Just give me the reins, while you put your foot on the step, as if to get in; the horse makes a move to go; I tighten the reins and say, "Whoa." Now, put your foot on the step again; the horse makes another move; I hold the reins and speak to him again. The horse is getting excited. Pat him a little on the neck and talk to him soothingly. Put your foot on the step again and repeat this process until the horse will stand still for you to get in, and adjust yourself in your seat and tell him to go. A few such lessons will train him so that he will always wait for the order before starting.

Now as your horse has just been fed, drive him at a very gentle pace for the first two or three miles until he warms up and his body becomes lighter. But, before you start, let me show you how to hold the reins. Take them in your left hand, have them of equal length from the bit, and to cross each other in your hand, the off side one resting on your first finger and the other on the fourth finger, the back of the hand upward. Now, in guiding the horse, you have only to use the wrist joint, which will direct him either right or left as you wish. Keep your hand steady, with a gentle pressure on the bit—no jerking or switching of the reins. If more speed is wanted take the whip in your right hand, to be gently used for that purpose; be careful not to apply it any harder than is necessary to bring him up to the required speed.

Speak to him soothingly and intimate, in the most gentle manner, what you want him to do, and he will try to do it. So noble an animal should not be handled roughly nor over-driven.

When you return have the harness removed at once, and the horse rubbed down with a wisp of hay or straw. Give him a bite of straw or hay and let him cool off before being watered or fed. Every one who handles a horse, or has anything to do with one, should in the first place cultivate his acquaintance; let him know that you are his friend, and prove it to him by your kind treatment; he needs this to inspire confidence, and when that is gained he is your humble servant.

If your horse gets frightened at any unusual sight or noise, do not whip him, for if you do he will connect the whipping with the object that alarmed him, and be afraid of it ever after. If he merely shies at an object give him time to examine it, which, with some encouraging words from the driver, will persuade him to pass it. You get frightened, too, sometimes, and would not like to be whipped for it.—Stock Journal.

Etiquette of Tea Pouring.

Few hostesses understand the art of pouring tea and coffee, simple as it appears. As a rule, the guest of honor is offered the first cup, which is the weakest, and the children, if served at all, are given the last and strongest. When it is desirable to have all the cups of uniform strength one should pour a little into each and then begin over again, reversing the order. In England this is so well understood that a pourer of tea or coffee does not begin to replenish the cups till all are before her. The mother of the nineteenth century has brought up her daughters to match some other mother's sons. The mother of the twentieth century will have to bring up her sons to match some other woman's daughters. This is contrary to George Eliot's oft-quoted theory that "God Almighty made the woman to match the men."—North American.

John Wesley's Library in Illinois.

The library of 4,000 volumes which William Deering gave Garrett Biblical Institute, and which arrived in Evanston a day or two ago from England, contained everything from a pamphlet to an octavo. Dr. M. S. Terry, of the institute said:

"The collection is a very complete history of the early struggles of the Methodist church. It includes many of the writings of Wesley, supporting his doctrines, and many of the assaults of his enmeies. His own family collection has been obtained entire, composed largely of the literature of Methodism. The collection will not have a great practical value to the institute, but from the standpoint of the antiquarian, the lover of rarities and the specialist in church history it will possess great interest."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Healthy, happy children are those whose mothers have been, and are, healthy. The best intentioned woman in the world will fall short of her duty to her children if she is worried and wearied with weakness and sickness. Most all irritable women are sick women. Most all melancholy, listless, languid women are sick women. Every woman who will take the trouble to notice, will find that at certain fixed periods she is nervous, cross, irritable and despondent. Any irregularity makes the conditions worse. Even a well woman is less amiable than usual at these times. What can be expected from a sick woman?

When every movement is a dreary drag, when the nerves are all on edge in sympathy with the particular ones affected—when it seems that death were very much preferable to living—what can a woman do for her children then?

It is every woman's duty to be well and healthy. There is no reason why she should be otherwise if only she will take proper care of herself and take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription when she needs it.

This celebrated remedy has been used in the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., of which Dr. Pierce is Chief Consulting Physician and specialist, for over 30 years. Thousands of women have been cured by it and hundreds have written grateful letters.

Some of these letters are embodied in a 168 page book, called "Woman and Her Diseases," which will be sent sealed in a plain envelope on receipt of ten cents (stamps), by WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

FARMERS

Adams and York Counties.

I desire to call your attention to my

SPRING RUN BONE PHOSPHATE.

My goods are made from the BEST MATERIALS the market affords, being largely composed of Animal Bone.

In order to compete with other manufacturers, I have—although a first-class article—reduced the price and am selling at a very small profit. I employ no agents, thereby giving to the consumers the advantage of the agents fees in making their purchases. Call and examine before purchasing elsewhere. I shall deem it an especial favor to exhibit the material from which Spring Run Bone Phosphate is made.

SPRING RUN BONE PHOSPHATE is warranted pure and equal to any other fertilizer on the market.

For sale only at the SPRING RUN BONE PHOSPHATE MANUFACTORY, at Abbottstown. (Will deliver on cars for parties desiring to ship by railroad.) Address

Hints for Housewives.

Every good cook should know by heart that large fruits such as peaches and pears are in their best condition for canning when not quite fully ripe, and that they should be put up as soon as possible after picking. Small fruits and berries should never stand over night if it is possible to avoid this. Only the best sugar should be used in canning and in the proportion of half a pound of sugar to a pound of good fruit, varying the rule, of course, with the sweetness of the fruit.

A good jelly, not familiarly known is made of pie plant. Wash the stalks well and cut into pieces an inch long. Put them into the preserving kettle with enough water to cover them and boil to a soft pulp; then strain through a jelly-bag. To each pint of this juice add a pound of loaf sugar; boil again, simmering often, and when it jellies on the skimmer, remove it from the fire and put into jars.

Here is a particularly nice receipt for preserving pears. Pare the fruit and drop it into cold water to prevent it from becoming discolored. When all the fruit is pared weigh it. Put the parings into a preserving kettle or some other kettle, over which a steamer can be placed. Add to the parings three pints of water for every four pounds of fruit. When the water begins to boil put on the steamer, which should contain enough pears to cover the bottom. Watch the fruit, and as soon as it becomes tender take it up and put in a fresh supply. When all the pears have been cooked, take off the steamer and strain the liquor from the parings. To each quart add one pint of sugar. Put on the fire in the preserving kettle, and when it begins to boil skim carefully. Now add the pears and simmer for twenty minutes. Put the fruit in glass jars and cover with hot syrup. Close the jars at once. A small piece of ginger root in each jar adds flavor to the fruit. The Flemish Beauties or Sheldons are the best pears to use.

Frozen peaches make a delicious dessert for an August day. For eight persons use one pint of sugar, one of boiling water and two quarts of ripe peaches, pared and sliced. Put the water, sugar and half a dozen cracked peach stones in a stew pan and boil for a quarter of an hour. Then rub the peaches through a puree sieve and strain the hot syrup on them. Stir well and then cool. When cold, freeze. Pears may be frozen in the same way.—New York World.

John Hancock's Coffin.

BOSTON, Aug. 4.—Workmen preparing for the foundation of the State monument to John Hancock, in the old Granary Burying Ground, accidentally opened the tomb, disclosing for the first time for more than a century the coffin of the famous signer of the Declaration of Independence. It was a zinc coffin, with this inscription:

John Hancock,
Born January 23, 1737,
Died October 8, 1793.
John George Washington Hancock,
Died January 27 1787,
Aged 9 years.

The second name on the plate shows undoubtedly that a son of John Hancock was also placed in the coffin.

Fatal Accident to Aeronauts.

Jackson, Mich., Aug. 5.—Two aeronauts were fatally injured in a balloon ascension accident which occurred at Vandercook's Lake, about forty miles south of Jackson, last night. Ella Peak, a trapeze performer, took the upper bar and Charles Elliott the lower. At the moment the retaining ropes were cast off a gust of wind caught the canvas and carried it to one side, and it took fire. The monster balloon shot into the air some distance with both of the aeronauts on the bottom. Then it came crashing down. Miss Peak fell heavily, breaking both legs, besides suffering internal injuries. Elliott is badly crushed. His injuries are said to be fatal.
